Unit 1- The March to Civilization
Video Assignment

Now that we have finish the first unit The March to Civilization, it is now time for you to show your understanding. Your task will be to create a video showing 4 important expectations:

- + Explaining the development of societies from simpler to more complex
- + Describing the roles of different members of society in the early stages of human history
- + Demonstrate an understanding of the bases of society in Paleolithic, Neolithic, and early Mesopotamia
- + Examine the criteria that a society must meet to be considered a civilization.

Each student will be placed into a group to perform this task. Each student must have equal roles in the group, as well as in the video. Please do not let one member of the group dominate the planning or acting in the video.

This video should show your understanding of the first unit. Try and add as many details as possible about each expectation. Some ideas to include in your video can be found on the timeline in your textbook on page 24.

Both groups will also be responsible for handing in a script detailing the sequence of events from your video. Each group must also have a narrator to explain is happening in each scene. You will be marked on the following rubrics. Most importantly HAVE FUN!!!!
